

Illustration (and conception) of new ideas

These images were used to present ideas to our client (L'Oreal) for possible future promotions for their kid's shampoo range. I used shapes from different bottles in the range to link the promotion more closely to the product - as well as the characteristic fish design.

The photograph at the bottom is a picture of the flips flops samples that were made from my artwork

